LUCK COMES NINE YEARS AFTER DEATH OF LOCATOR IN CHERRY CREEK DISTRICT

The search for George Treat is ended, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

The missing owner of "Chance," the abandoned silver mine in the Cherry Creek district in Nevada, which is said to have been recently found to contain great riches in tungsten, is sleeping the sleep that knows no end.

Nine years ago Treat died after having sunk about all his fortune in this and other mines, which despite his steadfast faith in them, failed as bonanzas. The smile of Dame Fortune has come, for him, too late.

Today his two daughters—Mrs. May Morrison, and Mrs. George R. Child, are about to reap the benefits of their fathers' "Chance." They are his sole direct heirs.

Prospecting in the early seventies, through the barren regions of the Sagebrush State, Treat struck color in the Cherry Creek district. He located a claim and began operations.

"The elusive vein, however, seemed always just beyond reach," said Mrs. Child, in telling the story yesterday. "Then, too, operations were so costly, for wood and water and provisions, to say nothing of machinery, had to be hauled over many weary miles to the mine."

"Never did my father's faith in the mine falter. He believed it to be rich, and he was borne out in his belief by others, among them Addithat the Pedro fraction leased by Clar is not the Erwin fraction, which lies east of the Pedro claim, but is situated west of the Pedro claim; and such being the finding upon this point, the evidence concerning it would be of no value upon retrial of the cause.

In reviewing the case the court said: "The evidence showed that the defendants had mined in the Erwin fraction without permission from Clar, who owned it. Their work caused a cave partly on the Erwin fraction and partly on the Pedro claim, which was left open in the bed of the watercourse of Manhattan Gulch, not where the small stream of the gulch was then flowing, but, nevertheless, in the bed of the gulch, and where water might flow at any time that a storm of sufficient intensity should cause the stream to spread from the small ditch it usually follows, or rather, into which it is generally confined."

"There was much talk of an extraordinary event, an act of God, and so on. We know here in southern Nevada that cloudbursts or torrential rains are not altogether unusual events and that, when they come, they follow old watercourses, in which streams rise very rapidly. Manhattan is well within the area of the torrential rains of the summer season; and even if it were not, or if it may be objected that this is not in evidence (being, however, a natural condition of things of which courts may take judicial cognizance), yet it may be anticipated that water will flow in the stream beds and that at times it will spread widely in them or fill them to some depth from wall to wall. son Head, mining engineer and expert of Constock fame.

Into the open mine shaft, figuratively speaking, were poured all Treat's once vast realty holdings. He had a large ranch near Santa Cruz, where he bred horses and where often came Senator Leland Stanford, himself a breeder of note. The ranch went. So did the old family homestead, 320 acres in the heart of the Mission district of San Francisco, in the neighborhood of what is now Twenty-fourth and Howard streets.

Finally Treat had to abandon his mine. But, still hoping that he could develop it into a paying property, he tried to recuperate his finances by mining on two other properties in Mexico, near Durango. From these he was forced away by the Mexican revolution of some twenty years ago. Obligated by the exigencies of fate to give up his pet projects, Treat returned to this city, and there he died at the age of 89, in the year following the fire.

To the very last, says his daughter, he spoke of his faith in "Chance."

"My sister, Mrs. Morrison, is on a motor trip to San Diego with her husband," said Mrs. Child. "As soon as I can communicate with her we will decide on our action. If it is true that we can regain possession of the mine by paying up back taxes, this we undoubtedly will do."

flow of water might well have been anticipated in Manhattan Gulch from summer rains, and it might further have been anticipated that it would flow down this cave into the workings with which the cave connected, including those on the Erwin fraction and those in the Robust, and cause damage there. The connection of the defendant's workings with Clar's was made by the defendants and improperly closed, or insufficiently closed. It should have been bulkheaded instead of being filled in with loose material. Even if the cave had not been caused by workings on the Erwin fraction, it would have been the means of ingress of water from the canyon into the Robust and the defendants would be liable for damages to that claim. To create this cave and then leave it open in a watercourse was clearly an act of negligence for which the defendants are liable. I can see no occasion to change my former views on this subject."

W. J. MORAN RE-OPENS OFFICE AS MINING ENGINEER

W. J. Moran, who has been identified with the camp ever since the dawn of the silver discoveries in the southern country, has returned to Tonopah and opened an office at 519 Bank building where he is open to engagements for all kinds of mining and survey work. Mr. Moran made the first map of Tonopah and published several editions to keep the groups in line with developments of the district. He is now engaged on a third that will show investors and others the great changes that have been wrought here in the past two years.

MARKET GOSSIP

Don't forget about Monarch. They are working in three different faces and have three good chances for ore. Today they cut high grade stringers. Any showing of commercial ore would easily put Monarch to twenty-five cents. We advise to buy it.

TONOPAH LADIES TAKE A TRIP TO GOLDFIELD

SISTERLY GREETINGS EXTENDED BY THE CLUBWOMEN OF SOUTHERN CAMP

Members of the Tonopah Woman's club left by auto this morning for Goldfield where they attended the annual breakfast held by the Goldfield Woman's club. According to the festive spirit the Tonopah ladies displayed this morning the affair will not only be the usual interesting and instructive one, but a brilliant social success as well. The Goldfield women needless to say, always make delightful hostesses in any way they choose to act. Those who went over to Goldfield this morning were Mesdames James McQuillan, M. A. Cahill, J. E. McNamara, Hugh Burke, E. C. Harris, Ivan Jefferies, Isadora Horton, Lloyd Horton, Roy Davenport, Ralph Bayless, Oro Jewett, C. E. Davis, Jack Schwable, Arthur Neth, Sidney Hodson, Frank Cavanaugh and Miss Mary Cavanaugh.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BALL WAS GREAT SOCIAL EVENT

The springtime dance of the Knights of Pythias thronged the Airdome with one of the most select audience seen in that pavilion. The arrangements for the comfort of the guests were perfect and great credit is due to the efforts of Chris Ziegler and the floor committee consisting of Stuart Macdonald, Stanley Knight, Dan Swart, Wesley Courdier, M. G. Haigh and T. A. Macduff. The special prizes, a pair of cut glass vases, were awarded to Mrs. Rondoni and Eugene O'Connell.

COUNTY OFFICIALS MAKE GOOD CLEAN-UP

During the past week the district attorney and the sheriff have caused an exodus of from fifteen to twenty hangers-on of the restricted district who had no visible means of support. It is certainly unfortunate that these men could not be put to work for the county or city, instead of being forced upon some other community, where their presence will be found equally objectionable. They ought to be put on a chain gang and kept there for several months as an object lesson to others of their class.—Ely Record.

PERSONAL

W. M. VEITH returned this morning from the coast.

MRS. HIRAM BILYEU and mother were passengers this morning for Millers.

R. J. HIGHLAND, of the Nevada Abstract company, was a passenger this morning for Reno.

C. W. WILLIAMS and H. J. Kendall were passengers on today's train for Needles, Cal.

MRS. JAMES F. COLEMAN of Goldfield autoed over from the gold camp this afternoon.

MRS. N. C. NEWELL, wife of Engineer Newell of the T. & G. railroad left this morning for Wilson, Kan.

JOHN G. KIRCHEN, general manager of the Tonopah Extension, leaves Reno this evening for Chicago and New York.

GEORGE B. COX, for the past five years engineer at the Belmont, leaves tomorrow for Los Angeles, where he goes on mining business.

FRANK M. JENIFER, traffic manager of the Tonopah & Tidewater railroad came in this morning and is registered at the Mizpah hotel.

JOE NORRIS, custodian of Masonic Temple, was taken to the Mine Operators' hospital last Tuesday, but his condition today is much better.

MRS. MARIE BURDICK, grand worthy matron, returned from Goldfield last evening accompanied by her mother, Mrs. F. R. Wittenberg.

MR. AND MRS. BOB WARD have returned to Tonopah from Denver and the east. Mr. Ward said that the roads from Denver to Ely are not in very good condition but from Ely to Tonopah they are almost like a boulevard, with the exception of the Current Creek section in Nye county where the bridge is out. The Wards will remain several months.

MRS. FRANK DARRAGH left this morning for the coast. She was accompanied by her young daughter, Elsie Monette. Mrs. Darragh will be met in San Francisco by her mother, Mrs. Gray of Eureka, and before visiting her home next month, Mrs. Darragh and her mother will visit in San Francisco and the bay cities.

THE CASINO HOTEL

C. R. Silva is a talented caterer. Since he took charge of the Casino hotel on lower Main street he has made it a very attractive place, greatly improving the appearance of the bar, but where they made the big change was in the dining room. It serves the best at any time, but more particularly on Sunday afternoons and evenings, when a delectable ravioli and chicken dinner is given, to which all are invited. The advertisement of the Big Casino appears in this issue of the Bonanza.

BUTLER THEATER

The program at the Butler this evening will consist of a five-reel Mutual masterpiece entitled, "The Leopard's Bride," featuring Margaret Gibson and William Clifford in a romantic drama of India, in which the famous Bostock animals take an important part. As Nadje, a beautiful Hindu girl in love with an English captain, who has saved her life, Margaret Gibson gives one of the most convincing performances of her eventful career as a successful actress. The handsome captain, who is attached to a military post in Canada, falls in love with an American girl which causes a jealous superior officer to send him upon a dangerous mission to get him out of the way. An absorbing plot develops in the very depths of the jungle where the four principals of the drama are brought together by the meeting of two hunting expeditions. Thrilling animal scenes in which unique situations and daring rescues keep the interest at a high pitch are an important part of the action, while the noble sacrifice of Nadje makes possible the stirring climax which brings the two lovers together. Margaret Gibson's splendid acting while facing the real dangers made necessary by her work with the Bostock animals adds intense interest to this drama for in addition to her rare beauty and wonderful talents, this famous young actress has learned to exercise a control of her emotions in the face of danger which makes her performance in "The Leopard's Bride" both thrilling and amazing. The preliminary reel will be Pathe Weekly.
